

Bargaining Update for April 19, 2010.

Chuck Smith and I met with representatives of the district to construct language for contingencies and a final tentative agreement. The district presented a draft outlining furlough days (now called budget reduction days). There were a few sticking points that we are confident will be ironed out by this Friday. We remain in communication with the district. Please be patient, putting in language that serves both sides can take awhile.

Thanks, Matt Johnson
MTA Negotiations Chair